From Fear & Guilt to Self-Love and Transformation ✨

When Manisha joined me, she was going through recurring UTI and period-related concerns. As we worked together, she began looking beyond the physical symptoms and became aware of deeper emotional patterns of fear and guilt that were influencing how she felt about herself and her life.

Through our sessions, she connected these patterns with her sacral chakra and emotional energy, and began consciously releasing limiting beliefs, practising self-love and creating a healthier relationship with herself.

Her transformation went far beyond what she initially came in for. As she started loving and accepting herself more deeply, she noticed positive changes across different areas of her life—including her well-being, relationships and career.

What started as a journey focused on one concern became a beautiful journey of self-discovery, emotional healing and self-love.

✨ Her biggest transformation: She didn't just learn to work on her outer circumstances—she discovered that changing the way she felt about herself could change the way she experienced her entire life.
