From “Something Is Missing” to Discovering Her Calling ✨

After spending more than 20 years working with a renowned organisation, Shraddha had built a successful professional life. Yet, despite everything she had accomplished, she felt that something was missing.

There was an emptiness she couldn't quite explain. She didn't feel that her life was complete, but she also wasn't sure what was missing or where to look for the answer.

Through our sessions, we worked together on gaining clarity, listening to her inner voice and understanding what truly made her heart happy.

And she discovered something beautiful—her heart belonged to dance. 💃✨

Instead of dismissing that desire or telling herself that it was too late, she chose to follow it.

At the age of 48, she enrolled herself in a dance healing academy and began pursuing professional education in dance. She also started attending weekend academy sessions and is now on a journey towards using dance as a medium to help and heal others.

Her journey is a beautiful reminder that your age is not a limitation—your limiting beliefs are.

Sometimes, the life we are searching for is already within us. We simply need the courage and clarity to listen to it.

✨ Her biggest transformation: She went from “Something is missing from my life” to “I know what my heart wants, and I'm finally choosing to follow it
